Whispers from The Brighter World

Plunge into yourself, where the best of an incarnation is fulfilled. Each incarnation provides an element essential for the development of the being and determined by each one's Karma. These concepts are not easy to accept. How many really know themselves and can say that they are the masters of their destiny, which makes light of desires and all the various aspirations that a person may have. What must be will be; that is how it is, may we say once again. Following a spiritual way maps out a path ahead. It is easier this way to hand oneself over to the living Master, who is the custodian of our powers and capable, to some extent, of easing the laws of life. Such laws are strict and unsparing; only faith allows one to trust fully.

Reaching that stage of wisdom is remarkable. Sahaj Marg helps one to advance and develop in proportion to one's deep call, to which we respond. No two lifetimes are alike. Each one provides a new element that is decisive in the progress of the seeker.

Meditation leads to a state of significant grace, which sometimes reveals itself only with time. It is so good to experience it when it truly emerges. Life then takes on a completely different meaning; a door opens onto the bliss that is so well hidden from the eyes of human beings amid the incessant whirlwind of life's vagaries. No matter, the main thing is there, and one day it reveals itself in all its magnitude, when it is desired and sought after as it should be. Then another life can begin, one that is carried by our very attentive care.
