Don't become attached to anything or anybody, humanly. The more you advance, the more you realize the frailty of human feelings. Place yourself on the spiritual plane only, and from there, give without counting. Make sure you distinguish between these two ways of doing. Your wide-open heart can set the world ablaze. Connect yourself to beings through the divine bond which unites you all; the hidden presence which is inside you, [you should] find it. Let it grow. On a large scale, that can change the world."
