Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, February 19, 2016 — 10:00 a.m.

Try to forget your sufferings. In some way they facilitate the work being done with these messages, although they are very heavy for you to bear. Such is life. The principle of human evolution has its own codes and inescapable laws. So has it always been, and in the current era no one can change them. Healings and significant changes can occur; everything has its raison d'être and is justified over time. The future will lead to an elevation of consciousness that will be quite substantial. A new era will be established on Earth in order to foster this general movement that is, in its own manner, already being prepared. A spiritual path like Sahaj Marg has a significant role in the great changes to come — everything is falling into place slowly, yet irreversibly. Each incarnation offered to human beings allows them to go through good and bad experiences, whatever the case may be, as these are necessary for their evolution. It is not always easy to understand why one needs to be incarnate, to go through multiple experiences and endure sufferings in order to achieve real progress. Sanctification always entails passing through difficult phases that allow the human being to be fulfilled in the best sense. When everything in this world becomes simple for the human being, a big step will be made towards building a better world. The practice of Sahaj Marg considerably alleviates the burden of each of its participants, in accordance with their genuine involvement, being inspired by a sincere heart.

"This is how it is."
