Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday, March 26, 2016 – 10:00 a.m.

Each and every human being has their own Karma and itinerary, as determined for their greater good. Trials are not easy to understand. They elevate the soul and clarify the journey of each person. Nothing is ever simple for any incarnate being; the laws of life are highly rigorous and their reality cannot be understood. Life is and will remain a mystery in its most subtle aspects, its primary and original cause.

Following a spiritual path allows one, however slightly, to go deeper into the reasons for an incarnation, the reasons for this principle which is essential to the movement of life.

Rising to this level not only opens up perspectives onto this Infinite, which is so mysterious, but it also helps one understand the need to advance, to progress in a journey that is so important in this process. Each incarnation offers the opportunity to grow, to surpass oneself each time, building upon previous achievements.

It takes much time and many rebirths to accept all these reasons that sometimes justify the heaviness of one's Karma. Advancing, opening up to the effects of divine Splendour, is the most beautiful experience possible. It takes much time and wisdom to reach the goal, but the efforts are worth it. When a soul opens up to the divine Splendour, the Masters rejoice and work even harder. This is what is at stake, and so will it be until the Masters' action culminates in the supreme success. May all be aware of this necessity to act when they feel the need and have the opportunity.

Special blessings to each of our brothers and sisters.
