Whispers from The Brighter World

Wednesday, April 6, 2016 — 10:00 a.m.

The winning of hearts takes place slowly and calmly; thus are the divine purposes designed. This process is inevitable. One day, it will unfold in order to meet an expectation — that of an unprecedented evolution in the world of humans.

Each kingdom in the universe has its own place and reason for being, and some of them prove to be incomparably powerful.

Noble and great souls are advancing here below. They light the way, one that rises up towards a state that is beyond human description. It is characterised by its vibration and ceaseless action aligned with higher worlds. With time, it divests itself of the grossness of the material plane. Everything is so slow here below; this pace cannot be changed in the current state of things. Such will not always be the case, hence this constant work to provide some light, however little, on the path of spirituality, and to ensure that spirituality will one day spread fully for the greatest benefit of this distressed humanity. Creation is so beautiful and generous in its action in the service of human beings and everything that lives — in all its diversity. Are human beings aware of what is offered to them? It does not seem so, since their respect for nature is still very far from manifesting. When the time has come for change, everything will need to be reconsidered — the smallest particle of life will have to be respected. Human beings will have to take this step if they themselves want to grow and go beyond their present limits. All in good time. To the divine power, nothing is impossible.
