Whispers from The Brighter World

Wednesday, May 25, 2016 — 10:00 a.m.

Never fear, this place will be preserved — such is our wish, and it will be respected. Our dearest Kamlesh will see to it. We know him well; indeed we have appointed him as head of the Mission that is so precious to us. He will reveal his talents more and more, in such a way that everything in the Sahaj Marg way will be consolidated and clarified with a view to an unprecedented expansion. We support him. Nothing in this world is ever simple, but what must be will be. Of this you can be sure. Large edifices are not built easily, but the most significant ones are there, like everything concerning our Mission on this Earth — a Mission whose sustainability will be assured. In keeping with the wish of higher powers, we can only give our very best so that everything takes its proper place in various locations where Sahaj Marg is being established for the long-term. Doesn't everything have its raison d'être? Comments like this may seem meaningless, and yet the very principle of life is based on that maxim.

The Sahaj Marg way has its own reason for being: it provides seekers with elements capable of satisfying their innermost aspirations to rise, to unite with the Divine. This is a natural need in some sense; by definition, human beings are divine in nature, even though they often forget it and get lost in the maze of life until they revert to the main thing and become aware of this reality. Sahaj Marg is the right way for this: it is simplicity through and through, and its action is very productive. That is how it is, let us say.

The best to all.
