Whispers from The Brighter World

Wednesday, June 8, 2016 — 10:00 a.m.

Human nature is very complex. So many important elements determine the life of the human being, and each incarnation brings an additional touch to what already exists. Although the principle of reincarnation is still far from being accepted by all, it is an essential fact in everyone's life. It reveals the action of the Divine in its fundamental principles. The divine laws cannot be challenged, hence the necessary acceptance regarding the fate of every being living in this world. Human beings build their lives as best they can; not everyone has the same mode of action, the same privileges or trials. In this regard, no one is spared — the divine laws are very strict and cannot be subjected in any way to a person's will.

Realising the need to follow a spiritual way testifies to a certain wisdom; reaching the strong point, the highest level of this quest, is a very valuable asset. Everything aligned with it consolidates this edifice on its sacred bases. How many lives will be needed to achieve this level? What matters is to become aware of this need and to do one's best to achieve the goal. The commitment of the heart is important; the reality of the being lies in the heart, contributing to one's elevation, one's ability to unite with the Divine. Our dear abhyasis are supported and guided according to their call, and no one is forgotten.

Blessings to all.
