Whispers from The Brighter World

Thursday, June 9, 2016 — 10:00 a.m.

These messages flow in your heart, having come from our united hearts. Is it necessary to reaffirm this? The principle is not commonplace, and yet all the great spiritual movements of the past have left a strong and definite imprint with writings of this type. This reality is not new. It has always existed and has been properly recognised in accordance with customs and circumstances. Here we have available a space of peace and love, and this is very significant.

Many beautiful souls join together in this way of the heart — a path that is unique in certain respects. Many calls rise towards us; humanity is suffering in many ways. The human being has never had an easy life, but conditions are such today that more and more calls rise towards us, seeking a safe haven to quench their thirst for the Divine. That thirst is growing much more than is humanly visible.

Having a space of peace and love within oneself is a real privilege. Accessing inner peace and serenity — is this not the most beautiful conquest of the human being? Humans have this privilege, unlike all the other life forms that are on this Earth and facing countless difficulties. The inner conquest of this extraordinary love is a rare blessing. The great mystics of the past have set an example with their surrender, their inner peace that supported them against all odds. Nothing has ever been easy for anyone. The greatest beings have suffered a great deal; no one is ever spared. Such is life — the stakes are worth the effort.

This is how it is.
