Wednesday, September 8, 1999 - 10:00 a.m.

My child, I would love my son and you to be truly brought together; that would be positive."

The Medium: "I do not see how that could happen since I don't attend seminars any more."

'Try to be imaginative. Think of modern means of communication..."

The Medium: "If my head was less tired, I would have tried to force myself and study the means you are alluding to. I would make that effort for you, but where would that lead us to?"

'To telling him that you share the same love which does not harm in any way your love for him, even if it is different; that he is your Master, quite simply."

Babuji