Whispers from The Brighter World

Wednesday, August 24, 2016 — 10:00 a.m.

Forget this world and its disturbances of all kinds. See only the positive, the nobility of the soul, that which is achieved when truly desired. So many obstacles must be overcome here below in order to brighten the outlook of this world of matter — a world where the best within human beings does eventually emerge. The divine laws are extremely strict in their final outcome, and nothing happens without reason. Everything is counted and fulfilled as it should be. This aspect is somehow reassuring; divine laws do not exist in vain. Without them, chaos would occur on Earth. Humans are not wise enough to decide their fate. They don't grasp reality as it really is. Humanity is progressing, and this fact is reassuring. A different world is being prepared. May you all truly think about this and in some way call forth this special vibration.

To all, the best.
