Yes, one day, you will be in the limelight by my side. You have yet some way to go, but this outcome will be the logical result of all this painful and loving process. Your heart calls us unceasingly and, even if this love were not shared, it would end up moving us. Nothing is impossible to love; it is the master of the universe. To engage in its wake is the best means of overcoming maya and all the barriers it creates in this world. Remain protected in this cocoon, my child; we keep a close watch on it and see to its effectiveness for the progress of your soul.

"Be strong to face up to the torments of life. Do your level best with all [people] and everything that affects you in your circle. A decrease of the physical forces makes you more vulnerable, but you are a strong soul that sails, in spite of everything, towards the goal where we are awaiting you. Should we tell you again that we love you? That is not a simple formula; you know it, therefore, this love, you should carry it inside you like a protective jewel. That's all. Rest."
