Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, September 2, 2016 — 10:00 a.m.

Regain your inner state of peace and harmony, which is beyond these noisy disturbances, in order to better commune with the divine source that generates these daily writings. They are an uncommon blessing for our Mission, and time will reveal their full importance, as it has always done in the past. What is divinely inspired withstands time and takes on an importance that could not be imagined initially.

Following a spiritual way, while being as committed as possible, gives life its full meaning. How would it be if there were no prospects but the current ones — no prospects suggesting a possible and beneficial continuation of a process long-planned but unknown to the seeker in advance. From one lifetime to another, a decisive programme unfolds in each person's evolution; reincarnation allows one to develop and achieve the best, while being carried by many experiences, some of which can be very painful. Here lie the karmic laws that are so mysterious for human beings; they turn the pages of a book in which everything is written and long foreseen. Such are the laws of life. The divine power is irrevocable at this level — the cycle of life will always keep its secrets. This is how it is. It's up to each one to make the best of it and do their best.
