Whispers from The Brighter World

Thursday, September 8, 2016 — 10:00 a.m.

Enough evidence has been given to you on the benefits provided by these messages. Their action goes far beyond words; their vibration affects the subtle points of the being, operating in its own manner where human beings do not expect it. Humans still have so much to discover about the resources they have and which they cannot even imagine in the current era. A time will come when everything will fall into place for an unprecedented transformation to occur and achieve the desired goal. In a certain manner, these messages are preparing that transformation. We do not claim to own the truth, but only to lead our abhyasis to the important changes that will take place, fostering a vibration consistent with the subtlety of the times to come. All this may seem confusing, and yet the apparent stagnation of these times is preparation for what will come, which will be in line with a general transformation on all levels of consciousness. May everyone continue doing their level best. Thus, everything will be fine.
