Whispers from The Brighter World

No life is simple; each person's karma manifests inexorably, creating situations and bonds that resurface from one life to the next to put the finishing touches on what already exists on the ledger of time. Nothing is ever simple. Good and bad coexist and constitute a whole, in accordance with the divine laws that prevail throughout the journey of a human being. A spiritual way like ours operates towards that which is good. It helps clarify situations that for a long time remained complicated on this lengthy journey of reincarnations — a journey during which we find each other for good reasons, though these reasons are not always easy to deal with. A human being advances, doing his or her best in the face of trials. That fact is decisive. Overcoming trials wisely is a very valuable asset, and it is good to be aware of this reality. Everything is counted and redeeming when human beings understand and adjust with wisdom to the realities of life. Sahaj Marg is helping them in this matter to what is best, as is sufficiently demonstrated by the results — namely, the best that can be for each and every one of our abhyasis.
