Whispers from The Brighter World

Wednesday, October 19, 2016 — 10:00 a.m.

No one on Earth is spared; each person's karma manifests itself inexorably. It takes so many tests to bring this long journey of life to completion. The greatest beings are not spared, setting an example, one might say, for the average person. Inexorably such things happen — events which no one expects. When faith and trust are present, acceptance is the only possible attitude.

The human heart holds powers that are beyond human perception. The divine laws establish rules which humans barely understand; there lies the active power connected to this divine order that determines life as a whole, down to its smallest particle. Human beings are so small before it. They believe they know, but what do they really know? Only that which is possible at this current stage of human evolution. All in good time — that is how it is.

To all, peace and serenity on this difficult path of life.
