Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, November 6, 2016 – 10:00 a.m.

May peace and joy be within you – you receive this message every day; your heart is the receptacle of our love and you carry it so well. Why should we hide what these contacts really mean? They produce these sacred writings, and they will be recognised and appreciated as such in the future.

Only time reveals the true value of certain events and the dimension they can possess. Many of our aspirants are being nourished by them, and we are happy about this. We follow them all on their journey, without being able to spare them the many worries they face. A life is never simple in its totality. Trials are formative, it is said; it is not always easy to conceive of it that way – reaching that state of inner peace alleviates Karma. To seek refuge within oneself, inside this space of deep peace, is an infinite grace. To work to attain it, in spite of everything, is a sign of great wisdom.

Trials are not given in vain; they constitute a force capable of ennobling an ardent heart. It takes many lifetimes to reach the high point, where the soul is ecstatic, where the best is achieved. When comes the time of heavenly fulfilment, all worries will be forgotten in order to make way for victorious Love alone.

Special blessings to all our brothers and sisters.
