Whispers from The Brighter World

Thursday, January 5, 2017 — 10:00 a.m.

Your heart is bound to this world for a while longer. Your soul goes ahead of it. Being immortal and free, it is already gliding towards spaces where you again meet your loved ones. It is not necessary to go anywhere on Earth. Your objective henceforth is to come join us where you will be much closer to the beings you love, whether incarnate or not. You will make yourself known sufficiently for them to understand it; this is how it is, shall we say once again. You will witness the expansion of this Mission with happiness while working in your own manner, when it is necessary. Such ties of the heart cannot weaken; they express themselves differently, and in your case they will do so for the good in many circumstances. Do not feel embarrassed — you will remain behind the scenes according to your wishes, working in a different way with the powers of action that will be vested in you.

You are our beloved daughter, serving us for a long time in your own manner. You love independence; only love guides you and carries you where needed, here in the service of this Mission. Rest assured, you will not be forgotten. These writings will remain the only authentic and valid ones — the united Masters highly confirm this. This is how it is; be at peace. You are carried by our very special love and blessings on this day of grace for your heart.
