Whispers from The Brighter World

Tuesday, May 23, 2017 — 10:00 a.m.

Life is not easy; every incarnation entails a certain number of trials which, in their own manner, shape each individual's personality. Following a spiritual path opens up new horizons on the Infinite — that which cannot be defined in human terms, so great is its complexity. Confined within their "smallness", human beings must adapt themselves to the demands of karma. How many times must one become incarnate to reach the desired level; the important thing is to progress, to open up to the power of the sovereign Spirit. It takes time for the abhyasi to settle into this initiatory process that is so special, as its action is so productive. Everything has its raison d'être and is demonstrated over time; each one advances in his or her own manner, and the result is decisive for everyone.

Blessed and sustained are our brothers and sisters. To all, the best.
