Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday, May 27, 2017 — 10:00 a.m.

Let yourself be carried away by these waves of love that embellish these pages every day. How could they be renewed with such steadfastness if this contact did not result from a special and very strong bond. It is a very old one, and it has left its mark over time in many ways. Beautiful stories are born and renewed when necessary in the service of a great cause such as this way of Sahaj Marg. Such an odyssey will influence this time and much further beyond it. So many changes will occur here below; humanity must evolve considerably in order to shift into a higher gear. In the future, our way will take on an important place that is not easy to imagine today. Everything is falling into place slowly, but will manage to reach a level that is difficult to envision at present. Our dear and great son Kamlesh is already laying the foundations for what will exist in the future. May all be prepared for significant changes that will be necessary for the future.

May the best unfold, under our blessings.
