Whispers from The Brighter World

Monday, January 16, 2017 – 10:00 a.m.

This long path of suffering has brought your heart to the desired level. What it has produced is uncommon; the acceptance, the love it generates elevates the soul towards its highest trajectory.

'To love, is that not its raison d'être.' It takes time to understand, to realise that apart from this supreme destination, all is in vain in this world. Our path is advancing in this perspective, to bring the greatest number of people to become aware of this potential that dwells within them. It is to be discovered for so many human beings having no notion of a reality, so important, in each one's life. It is not easy to admit how necessary it is to make room for such an approach. The movement of life is ceaseless and can disturb the most balanced person; when he or she finally understands the need to give a place of choice to such an approach, the process is engaged.

In our path, we see beings advancing, some of them with such fervour that we can only admire and rejoice at such an achievement. The new era is being prepared at several levels; the one that concerns us here has a very special place. Everything is being done at our level for the best to occur.

Blessings to all our aspirants on their way to bliss.
