Whispers from The Brighter World

Thursday, May 1, 2014 – 10:00 a.m.

We have given enough information to satisfy the demand of all our abhyasis concerning the future of our Mission. When our dear son rejoins us, the next Master – already long prepared to succeed him – will take over. The Mission will carry on; in the centuries to come, several generations and more will receive this teaching, redeeming and effective beyond appearances. Our path is already aligning itself little by little with the vibratory level of the future. The basic teaching will remain, and it will be reinforced, one might say, over time, according to the parameters characteristic of the era. Our Mission will know how to adapt to circumstances. Its capabilities are great and would amaze the abhyasi of today. This teaching is not static; it evolves imperceptibly with the passing of time, and it will no longer be the same in centuries to come. Rather, it will be in line with the characteristics belonging to that future world.

Our brothers and sisters of today are the pioneers of this multifaceted Mission, whose magnitude and power of action will be revealed with time. The next Master will take up the torch and manage this Mission as appropriate, just as all of us, including our very dear Parthasarathi, have amply done. Each of the Masters has his place and will remain a part of history; none are to be neglected. This Mission is the fruit of an unprecedented action here below, and it will remain exemplary for centuries upon centuries. Be happy, all of you, to participate in this major spiritual movement which, however discreet, will mark this time as you cannot imagine. That is how it is.
