Whispers from The Brighter World

Tuesday, October 16, 2012 — 10:00 a.m.

A new week begins, a new step made in a year. There is no time to lose. Each of our aspirants is advancing at their own pace; we cannot force anything. What matters is their commitment and consistent practice. Certain situations make them aware of the need to act accordingly, to not neglect what is an important benefit for them. In an instant, all can be turned upside down, destroying the certainties upon which humans often rely without taking into consideration the realities of their life's path. Life is so fragile, so surprising in terms of the unforeseen; surrendering to the Divine is a sign of wisdom. The incarnate Master works behind the scenes; he is the essential connector between Divinity and humans. In a process of this kind, his powers are greater and more decisive. All this is not easy to understand; we cannot put forward too many great truths at present. People's minds must open up more and consider what truly exists in the universe, rather than what is said and done in relation to these concepts. The plurality of worlds actually exists; humans must become aware of this — followers of the 'flat earth' theory still exist! With these messages and some of our books, our abhyasis here can have an inkling of what is, even though much remains for them to discover. The time has come when humanity must advance in knowledge. May the reality revealed to human beings make them more fraternal and human, in the sense of tolerance towards others with regard to race and ideals.

May all be enlightened and blessed; that is our wish and our action.
