Whispers from The Brighter World

Monday, October 22, 2012 — 10:00 a.m.

In reading these letters, you see the flood of love and gratitude generated by these messages. They are, you can be sure, a unique contribution to our Mission, and time will lend them their full dimension. The incarnate Master appreciates them; he made the choice to publish them, thus showing the full extent of his wisdom and the greatness that characterises him. Blessed are those who follow him and respect his decisions; they are inspired ones, and failing to recognise it is harmful to our abhyasis and to the Mission. May all hearts that are vested with grace benefit from this heavenly manna; they will not regret it. What is divinely inspired has its reason for being. Our way is the work of it, preparing enlightened minds to achieve the best of their being and to access knowledge. These readings motivate our convinced aspirants; their number is increasing and this is satisfying. Achieving fulfilment through such an approach is an indescribable happiness.

On the material plane, there are difficulties of all kinds. Diligent practice allows one to put the ups and downs of this material world into perspective. May all our brothers and sisters attain the best and produce a salutary flow of energy in these troubled times that do not bode well. Committed abhyasis should only deal with themselves. One should focus on what is essential for oneself, for one's immediate future and for the continuation of a mystical epic that is inspiring when it clearly generates the best for a person who is both experienced and aware of the opportunity that is offered.
