Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, October 28, 2012 – 10:00 a.m.

Let yourself be carried towards this divine splendour, that which delights your heart. There begins this contact which is renewed and appreciated each day. It produces these messages that are increasingly sought after by beings who are receptive and really committed to our system. This system will significantly mark the new era and thus place these beings vibrationally in tune with the power of the sovereign Spirit. The latter builds that which cannot be perceived by human beings, though it is essential for their elevation. The Stone Age, which we alluded to recently, is long gone; it is up to today's humans to grasp what we are offering them in this special register. All are not aware of the situation. Having reached this pivotal point in their evolution, human beings have choices to make: to move forward, or to stagnate without seizing the opportunity offered to them to be ahead of events.

Make of that what you will; humans have their own judgement, their good or bad tendencies with which they must contend. There lies the challenge of an incarnation. A life without trials, without all kinds of difficulties, would not be constructive in the way we understand it. Everyone carries a burden that is their own and necessary for their evolution. Everything has a price; everything is earned here below. The positive balance of a life represents the most valuable asset, one that determines what comes next on all levels.

To accept what is and to be thankful indicates a certain grandeur of soul. It is not always easy to respond in this way. We all went through many ordeals on this Earth. Who is spared? Such are the rules.

It is up to each and every one to respond according to their deepest convictions and an inner cry that is stronger than anything else, leading the being to the best of itself. This quest is difficult in some respects, but so very liberating.

We wish courage and determination to all in going ever further under the enlightened guidance of the Masters, manifesting on the human plane as the living Master who holds all of our powers in every way.

That is how it is. To all, we wish strength and courage in the face of adversity; we are helping them in this.
