Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, July 27, 2014 – 10:00 a.m.

Why not return to important aspects in this Mission: brotherhood and acceptance of others in their distinctive characteristics. A spiritual path such as ours forms a homogeneous whole, guided by the power of the incarnate spiritual Master, who is carried by a hierarchy attentive to his every step. Everything is considered in the smallest detail and does not escape our vigilance. Thus the Mission advances and creates in hearts a bond that is beyond human understanding, but one that truly exists. A 'family' must remain united against all odds, regardless of the inevitable human turmoil. Such is this world: perfection must be won and maintained in the best possible manner with the resources at one's disposal.

Everyone does what they can within their potential; what is important must be given due consideration. Respect for the Master, along with the love he sends out and receives in return, creates a force, an indestructible bond wherever he may be. This highly subtle energy has no limits, no barriers whatsoever, and it carries beings in what is most important for them: an achievement defying time. That achievement deserves each person's attention; it is the most precious possession, as we repeat often enough. Everything that lifts the being above the baseness of this world is liberating and carries hopes that are not in vain – they deserve everyone's attention. To advance spiritually, carried by a high-level Master, is an infinite grace.

To all the best, for an exemplary success.
