Our most faithful brothers and sisters form a great family of souls meeting again from life to life and, for the majority of them, going through similar experiences in their spiritual quest. The same wave carries them, fostering their process. Countries, races, are no obstacles; only the karmic line determines where and when this reincarnation must occur.

All humans are brothers and sisters, but they do not want to know it, preferring to give free rein to harmful inclinations. A sincere approach, in a way like ours, must bring them closer. It is the goal of the big gatherings, enabling them to become aware of their unity on the spiritual level, which is essential. A single heart unites them, transcending borders. A profound mystical impulse makes this wonder happen: the sacred union of souls going in the same direction.

Seen from that angle, human divergences have little importance. When will humans finally understand that they are equal in this world and before God? They keep erecting barriers – race, sex and social background being their pretexts to satisfy an authority constituting a kind of shield to their shortcomings. Following a spiritual way is also to understand the illusory side of these inequalities, which are inherent to a humanity seeking a way out.

May the time of liberation happen for all suffering souls.
