Whispers from The Brighter World

Monday, November 11, 2002 – 10:00 a.m.

You belong now to another system, my child. Henceforth, everything you express is defined by a special code, which you must conform to and not depart from.

You have shown your ability hitherto, and we know that you will continue to follow this way of love and surrender that is yours. You have shown us enough of your steadfastness and your goodwill for us to trust you.

Human beings are sometimes so disappointing, changeable, unstable, switching from fervour to indifference when a humanly attractive event arises in their lives. Their egos, also, can drive them to having unfortunate behaviours, not only for themselves but also for their fellow beings, when they are called upon to play a minor role in a group, as we often notice.

Faith must be firmly anchored in the hearts of our aspirants who rely completely on their Master to be led along a path conducive to their evolution.

Humility is the best attitude, capable of preventing any slippage. By being well aware of their smallness, they are not likely to believe in being superior to their brothers and sisters.

Humility is the strength of the great. They know that they are nothing but animated projections of a perpetual movement, driving the wheel of universal life in its immensity.
