Whispers from The Brighter World

Do not worry about this health problem. It is not new, it was just not identified.

In medicine, diagnosis is a crucial aspect; current knowledge is far from being complete and able to remedy disorders when they come to light. Have courage, my dear daughter, a solution will be found to make you feel better.

Many of your fellow beings suffer from thyroid problems, which very often aren't identified. The intense pollution prevailing in this world is largely the cause, one of the major reasons being radioactive fallout.

On another point which upsets you – the denunciatory campaign against the Mission in France – it is good to adopt a state of mind permitting greater interiorization and to let the storm blow over, even if it is likely to last. This state of affairs must encourage the development of new habits in the manifestation of faith and the way of experiencing it as a group. It will require different behaviour that will have to be adapted to the circumstances.

Better times will come again, driving out all these scourges.

Nature is a good example of surrender, it must resign itself to inclemencies.

We have said it before: the greatest religious or spiritual paths have encountered difficulties throughout the centuries. We do not escape the rule, with regard to this country.

One must know how to wait and believe in better days when the Mission in France will recover recognition and will be able to continue its expansion – it cannot be otherwise. Remain confident all of you.
