Tomorrow all will be but love. Today, we will remain in the reality of the Earthly existence of each of you; it is not easy for any of you. We are trying, throughout these messages, to make you all understand the meaning of all the ordeals you have to go through.

Our way, no more than any other, can make you escape your human condition.

It transforms your lives in many respects, but it does not spare you from the sorrow and suffering that inevitably occur.

A spiritual approach provides it with a profound meaning. It transforms your condition and lightens your burden. Thus, you can all better situate yourselves in time and space; you no longer feel isolated, lost in the middle of this immensity. The loneliest among you is part of a large family of souls that end up finding each other again. They gather together according to well-established rules, and their destiny is achieved at the highest level where shadowy areas have disappeared and only beauty remains.

Sooner or later, the jigsaw is pieced together; all the parts fit together perfectly.

Perfection is the purpose of all things, in the kingdom of the Divine Creator.

Movement and action have no other goals than this culmination.

Become aware, all of you, of this quest for beauty and perfection; you will have understood a great truth.
