Beloved Master
Revered Babuji Maharaj

Whispers from The Brighter World

Monday, April 30, 2001 – 10:00 a.m.

These messages, in a certain way, are starting to soar. Under their apparent simplicity, they will be able to touch hearts.

Some will find them meaningless; when there is not a readiness to receive them, they cannot touch the right chord. Others will consider that they come at just the right moment and will welcome them.

Relax, my daughter, gain stature; this celebration day is special.

Graces are bestowed on people of goodwill. May all your hearts, wherever you are, be feeling them. Set aside moments for meditation, be united in prayer. Think of your brothers and sisters who do not have the luck to be on their way towards the ultimate goal of their existence.

A very big gathering cannot take place this year in India for reasons of climate. Therefore this celebration is being held in another way. It teaches you how to create within yourselves special conditions that enable you to feel the effects produced by the union of all hearts converging towards the same celebration. Feel within yourselves the power of this egregore which intensifies as time goes by. Be happy to belong to this family of souls – it will continue to grow, prodigiously. Let yourselves be carried away by this mysterious wave that is rising up to your feet.

You can give thanks for being blessed in this way. Please, be aware of that fact. That is our wish for today.

Babuji