Whispers from The Brighter World

Wednesday, May 16, 2001 – 9:30 a.m.

My child, let yourself be carried away by the melodious wave of love, we know how much this language soothes you. Love is the key, for you there's nothing more beautiful. We understand it and want to answer this call. It is one we can fulfil and a subject we can talk about forever, since this energy is the driving force of the world, of the worlds more precisely.

On this planet, it doesn't take on its full meaning – in the perception humans have of it – yet its manifestation is all-powerful, since it is divine.

Humanity of the future will be entirely tuned to this vibration. A new race is on the horizon, it is in mutation and preparing the new era. This race will not lose itself in vain speeches, terrorist acts and excesses of all sorts.

We are all working here to prepare these distant times, which are inexorably on the march.

Pray for the advent of this better world, your descendants will know it. Even if time cannot be measured regarding this outcome, in the end the result will be there.
