Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday, May 19, 2001 – 10:00 a.m.

The new race that we've just mentioned will change the world. It is an indisputable fact, but all of you, in your own way, can act to pave the way to this future, where humans will stand in solidarity, where torture, terror and hunger will be banished.

You can imagine this world, pray, help your fellow beings, and spend your lives meeting others rather than withdrawing into yourselves and dwelling on your small problems. Solidarity exists, it is developing, minds are opening and becoming sensitized to poverty and suffering. And even though all these efforts remain insufficient, they are of utmost importance. Make sure that your sadhana is fruitful in this respect as well. You are not advancing alone, your fellow humans are expecting help from you even in this area, spirituality, that can transform their lives, give them meaning, and give them a glimpse of other perspectives they hadn't thought of. This wealth is within their reach. The golden age won't come about without it – it is its lynchpin and primary inspiration.

The world is moving, a purifying movement is in the making. Humans must awake and act on all levels, according to their abilities, their personality and their own requirements.

Human beings of today have a role to play, the importance of which they cannot imagine. Each of their actions is a pawn moved in the great game of evolution. Make sure that its trajectory is divinely inspired.
