You can tell your dear children-in-heart, how much we appreciate their work. They put all their heart into it and we are pleased to note the impact that these messages produce on them. They know how to extract their true essence. They will be able to speak about them knowledgeably, without superfluous verbal flights, without pompous speeches, with only the knowledge acquired over the course of this work and with the grace that will not fail them.

These messages are given to be used, when the moment has come. They exist and possess a power unsuspected until now that will be able to manifest itself usefully. They'll have their own life that will never cease to touch hearts. It is not erudite discourses that are the most moving – truth opens doors, it lights the world and does not mislead those who receive it. It is a rare commodity in this illusory world. It makes its way in souls that are ready to welcome it, to be nourished and to elevate themselves with it.

May your hearts not be troubled, only that which is true can remain in them, now that they are adorned with the divine seal.

Be surrendered, let faith and love be your torches. They will not cease to enlighten you, maintained by the breath of the divine life which has touched you very deeply and indelibly.
