Whispers from The Brighter World

Tuesday, May 22, 2001 – 8:00 a.m.

Yes, we all searched before finding the path. That is how humans proceed before arriving at what is suitable for their level of evolution.

Opportunities appear when the time is right, and then the real work can begin and bear fruit. There is no other way – when a soul is ready, the Master who is destined for it presents himself, and this encounter is decisive. Will fusion take place? Everything depends on the aspirant's ardour and on how he or she conducts their sadhana. The Master accompanies, he doesn't lead by force. This joint action is freely consented to and can lead to the highest level of perfection.

All the beauty of our path can then reveal itself and delight the fervent hearts that have surrendered with confidence and love.

Thus is this process tirelessly repeated, it is part of the established rules and in conformity with man's evolution. All is planned in advance – there is no place for whimsy in this system.

Each has their own role to play, their ardour must overcome all the obstacles that inevitably occur.

This is how it goes in any initiatory process. Nothing is acquired without hardship. Until the end of time, the same rituals and the same effects will repeat themselves tirelessly to honour the divine plans.
