Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, May 27, 2001 – 8:00 a.m.

Yes, my child, throughout the day, try to keep the condition you were left with at the end of our contact yesterday evening. Let yourself be carried by the redeeming flow; this Sunday rest can only foster it.

Lift yourself up; lift your thought above this world. Is this not better than holidays? We understand your need for change, fresh air, communion with nature – your longing to get away from here. Create all these impressions in yourself, live them intensely, visualize these landscapes you are missing.

We would like to give them to you in this moment. You can recreate anything in your heart, smell intoxicating fragrances, breathe in and experience stirring moments; everything is within your reach. It is enough for you to ask for it, to want it strongly. Your spiritual being can do much better for you than commune with nature. The world is in you: the sun, the moon and the starry sky. Priceless flowers, nameless trees – your mind can appropriate everything in these blessed moments.

Do you appreciate this walk? Has it refreshed your heart? Prolong it, my child, and continue to advance in this fragrant maze; your soul will come out of it delighted.
