Beloved Master
Revered Babuji Maharaj

Whispers from The Brighter World

Tuesday, May 29, 2001 – 10:00 a.m.

All the bustle around you has stopped. The channel is finally free, we can start. Taste these moments of peace and communion. Let yourself be lulled by these melodious sounds. Don't feel embarrassed; these comments are intended for all, as is the case every time. Each one can feel the effects in their heart.

An unremitting work has shaped your souls. The rigour in sadhana bears fruit. You cannot assess its extent, you all feel different; you only aspire to rise up.

The soul cannot stop on its way, the call is the strongest; it carries you always further along. This attraction accelerates with time. No one can resist it. Is there anything more beautiful, more exhilarating, than this celestial union? It embellishes your days, you glide out of time. This mystical life that develops in you all may not change the face of the world, but it contributes to your radiance.

Only God knows the reason for his choices, it is in the order of things. When grace invests a soul, it is a blessing for humanity.

Babuji