Beloved Master
Revered Babuji Maharaj

Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, June 10, 2001 – 8:00 a.m.

Bless you for making my son happy. You can see from his reactions how much these messages mean to him. May our privileged intermediary be thanked for his efficiency.

The work of a spiritual Master is unceasing. He knows no rest; being missioned at this level requires complete and unreserved commitment. It represents a lot of work for an incarnate being with the constraints and obligations of any human being.

These messages are a breath of fresh air for him; they give him joy and encouragement to continue on.

We will try to ensure that this special communication continues for as long as possible; it holds an important place for him.

You see, my daughter, that your role is not negligible; we chose you knowingly. True mediums are rare, and you meet a certain number of conditions, including a relationship of heart and trust that prevails in this matter. It could not be otherwise; it gives a special tone to these writings by personalizing them.

Everyone can recognize themselves in you, so never be afraid to express yourself and let your heart speak; that mode of expression is within the reach of all.

All of you, practice loving your brothers and sisters and helping them; for this you have our support and blessings.

Babuji