Whispers from The Brighter World

Understand, all of you, that each trial is formative and necessary to your evolution.

We have said it time and again, this principle is the foundation of everything. Be aware of this point and respectful of the game whose twists and turns punctuate your lives.

You cannot escape from it, so it's better if you participate in its vagaries willingly. Know how to appreciate each moment; whatever it is, it has its importance. Wise people thank God for placing them in all those situations where they can show their faith. You realize, through these comments, how much you must progress to arrive at this stage of surrender.

Love makes you grow and gives you a strength you don't even suspect is there; in certain circumstances it carries you and astonishes you. Grace responds to this attitude: it elevates you and transforms you. Be happy to be on the way, to have understood where the priorities lie and to make of your life an edifying example for your brothers and sisters who do not have the help of faith.

Can you imagine your life without it? How it would be devoid of interest, of reasons to fight, to fall, to get up and set out again with a reassured heart towards the next obstacle that, one day, will be the last!!
