Tuesday, August 3, 1999 – 8:00 a.m.

The Medium: Babuji, this explosion on the moon, is it serious?

Yes, insofar as there exist forms of life which your electron microscopes cannot detect. The human being is a large-scale predator. Humans believe they are a unique species living on the only planet that can be inhabited. They are severely mistaken and the consequence of this insane act is incalculable. The council of sages that monitors this world is deeply affected by it. How to stop this madness of exploration and disastrous experiments?

The Earth is dotted with nuclear power stations, some of which are antiquated and capable of blowing everything up, causing the oceans to overflow, inducing polar reversal and other such delights. You ask a question, I respond, but that you all know already. I don't want to frighten you; you've been receiving echoes of these issues for a long time.

Governments know it and change nothing in their policies. They cannot backtrack even though they know the situation in its terrifying reality.

You, as citizens, can neither change anything nor blame yourselves for such a state of affairs. Demonstrating in the streets would lead to nothing. It is a monstrous system that will come to an end all by itself, after much pointless turmoil.

Energy can be found differently and simply, but the time has not yet come for that.

You are using what these monsters have created, and you cannot change anything.

That's how it is.

Babuji