Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday, August 7, 1999 – 10:00 a.m.

You see, my daughter, there are generous souls around you. F has good intentions, she does what she can to help you; thank her.

You are alone to face things, that's a fact, but there is good will and also love around you. It is true that your personality and your strong vibrations attract or repel, and you cannot do anything about it. The assessment of your life, in a way, is very positive; you have helped and you still help a lot. Your life is far from being useless, as you think in moments of doubt.

Who doesn't doubt? The great beings themselves go through terrible moments, which can even reach despair and which they cannot escape; it is inevitable.

This is inherent in human beings; whatever their life, their profound nature, they must experience that state sooner or later. It belongs to the range of emotions they must feel.

With regard to your housekeeping problems, we will find a solution. Endure, appreciate what you have even if it is not satisfactory.

Be strong and cheerful for us who love you and who perceive what your heart feels in terms of heavy and trying aspects.

My son is also very tired; he must cope with so many problems. He does not have the support he needs for the whole of the Mission. He would need a true rescue squad around him. His health is not good, he goes through moments of great discouragement.

He is both happy with the growth of the Mission and overwhelmed by the extent of the responsibilities that fall to him.

Think of that, help him in your heart, send him much love.

Be blessed.
