Whispers from The Brighter World

Thursday, August 12, 1999 – 10:00 a.m.

You are passing an important milestone, which accentuates your tiredness. Be patient, we are here. Don't linger over the incomprehension of your fellow human beings. If they were in your shoes, they would be crying out for help.
Remain dignified, my daughter. You are courageous, we appreciate it.
Know for sure that you have taken part in a huge labour.
Be blessed.
