Beloved Master
Revered Babuji Maharaj

Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday, August 28, 1999 – 8:00 a.m.

Even if C no longer knows you now, she has built and fortified herself thanks to all you have brought to her for so many years, enabling her, today, to deal a little better with the events of life.

She is not the first to act this way with you and she will not be the last, you know it. Become more and more detached and be in the frame of mind we previously mentioned, without being dominated by human feelings, which are so deceptive.

Give your love spiritually, without expecting anything in return. Love them all without limits or reservations of any kind, carried by the current of divine light that flows through you.

Whoever is thirsty will drink.

Babuji