All our tribulations on the Earth serve one purpose only: bring you round to loving Him. Whatever our asset in this life, we are as destitute as a newly born child. Nothing belongs to us and that which we benefit from can be taken from us from one moment to the next. Only this love, which connects us with the Creator, cannot change. On all occasions, we can rely on this power; it is intangible and is sublimated by the importance we give it. Answering it opens the holy channel and can lead you towards infinity, that which you aspire to sail to.

"Become nothing else but love, let it sweep through you; let it feel at home inside you; let it have the prime position. Step aside; let it conquer the least of your cells. Be a living flame, a fire burning with love and which gives your life its true meaning, thus it could only be glorious."

The Medium: "Take me away, my God, I can't stand any longer being separated from you."

"But you are already with Him, so what else are you asking for? Be blessed and happy to benefit from these contacts and to be able to convey what we wish to share with people open-minded enough to understand them. If your friends can make it, let them come and meditate with you; this is a special day. They may benefit from it."
