In these messages, we can use another type of language, more intimate; sensitivity can surface, the impulses of the heart can be expressed more easily. It is about a tête-à-tête, in the present; it is easier to let one's feelings show and to let them be expressed very simply. This is why this mode of transmission is unique. Two souls communicate and do not fear to show their love. We will not come back to this topic; we have delved, over the previous days, into the importance of love and of its various facets. It is up to you to work on this aspect. While growing, it will embellish your life. Never deprive yourself of expressing your good feelings for your fellow man. Knowing how to communicate is a great power in life."
