Do not act hurriedly, let this mail go and we will see thereafter. Never feel discouraged when it is about working for a good cause.

"'Do right and fear no man' is a right formula. It is true that my son is overloaded with work and that serious barriers should be placed around him. Do what you deem good for the delivery of this parcel and let's wait for the reaction, if any. Be at peace regarding all that. These are not ramblings and my son knows it well.

"See how humans are complicated and not open-minded, even when they believe they are doing the right thing.

"Carry on your road, light-heartedly, guided by faith, the love of God and your Masters. Be blessed in all your undertakings and let the negotiator be thanked for his perseverance and his 'finesse' particularly in this circumstance."
