It will still take much time, many upheavals and ordeals of all sorts, for the majority of men to recognize the existence of the divine power; it is in the nature of things. In future times, an acceleration will take place in this area and consciousness will open up to the wonderful reality. We are working to that end, unremittingly, for the achievement of this great work: the manifestation of the golden age in all its splendour. You all, our aspirants, you contribute to this success. Your personal work, your results are added up and form a whole, fostering this work of Redemption. Each one of you has one's own usefulness, a social role to play, but especially the fact that your understanding the fundamental importance of an assiduously carried out spiritual process places you among the leaders. Your soul was ready in this incarnation to find 'the Master', the adequate way meant to lead you to the highest level. You are luminous points on this Earth. You are, more than anyone else, in the hand of God. You should rejoice, make appropriate choices in life to what you want to obtain. Whether you choose to serve or not, never forget the importance of your personal work and its impact in general. Plunge into yourself, my child, and forget the hardness of life."
