A Fourth Revelation

We will be able, henceforth, to slow down the pace if you so wish. You should spare yourself, my child. Just imagine the statistics about the number of messages you have noted down; the figures speak for themselves. The heart, even the least inclined, can find its food in reading them.

"We can still make some minor improvements to this teaching, but it must make its way inside you and you must feed it with your own reflection and your personal work. You know the procedure. The way we propose is simple and the practice is easy.

"Our writings and speeches as well as these messages form a whole that is capable of giving you supplementary support. Thus, your Master can find you in a satisfactory state to do his work. You entrust your spiritual life to him and he wants the best for you. By joining your efforts, there is no limit to what you can hope for.

"You can let yourselves go in utmost surrender to the divine Master of the universe."
