Saturday, November 6, 1999 - 10:00 a.m.

The Medium: "You are right, Babuji. It is necessary to dream. I dream only of the moment when I will join you as well as all the beings who are dear to me."

I know that dream, but there is no question of that one for the moment. You are on the Earth and you still have some work to do there. Therefore, you should dream advisedly."

The Medium: "Yes, with pleasure, Babuji. I would like to be able to travel, and hence to go to Madras and especially to speak English, if you see what I mean."

"You should remain in the realms of possibility; dream and miracle are two words with different meanings."

The Medium: "Cannot one dream of miracles? Is that not part of the game?"

"You know very well what I mean; it is necessary to know how far one can go in this area. We also know that for so many years you have been holding on mentally by thinking that one day you would resume a normal and active life like the one you had in the past. On the contrary, we will not deny the power of positive thinking. Do as well as possible, my child. We support you and we love you – this you know."

Babuji