Thursday, March 30, 2000 – 10:00 a.m.

You are fully reassured; you see that your Beloved does not forget you. So things are clear at this level.

Your path continues without anything essential being taken away from you. Your life, on the contrary, must be enriched with a precious asset that you will benefit from until your departure. We are advancing in this work of restructuring your subtle bodies, a sort of foundation work. The personality of an individual results from all this construction that escapes your human understanding.

At a certain stage of the spiritual evolution of each of you, universal harmony must prevail in this assembling, which life and its many tribulations have made chaotic.

We are bringing some order to all this very subtle structure.

It must be so for a divine precision tool.

The Venerable