Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday, April 8, 2000

You must develop your concentration and your power of thought. It requires practice, like a champion who prepares for competition through physical exercises and a strong will to achieve a goal. Coaches cannot do everything; they give instructions and follow the person step by step, pushing with criticisms and encouragement.

Yes, here everything is different since this does not happen on an objective level. We remain in the realm of the subtle, the impalpable, and this is where the difference lies.

Support our work with the will to live and succeed. We cannot give you back the body of a young girl; we too would like to see you suffer less. Well-motivated by a joint action, we should be able to achieve this and thus give you the strength to act in the way we mean.

The Venerable